

Comes Naturally
Odd Tax Trend

Ed McFaddin's speech last night at the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce was a wise and heavily-documented report on how the civic consciousness ebbs and flows — in our town, or any other town.

But because he was speaking about his own home town Ed. could cite dates and names that carried authority. He was telling Hope about its own people — the dates that great plans were launched, and whether they succeeded or failed; and the names of the men and women who worked on those plans.

As Ed. reported to you, today's Chamber of Commerce is the fourth in Hope's history — the largest and longest-lived of them all. Its predecessor, No. 3, died during the depression with its writer as president. I was laid up with a tonsil operation when the late Ralph Rounton, retiring president, brought me the news I had been elected... the depression did the rest.

After the storm clouds blew away, Ed. McFaddin, the late Bryce Coffman and your correspondent were named as an organizing committee to revive the late, lamented and it's been kicking ever since.

I never bothered to inquire into the intricacies of why there have to be chambers of commerce. You have 'em for the same reason you have churches and schools and clubs and politics. Man is a gregarious animal. He doesn't like to be alone. He believes that a crowd steamed up to work for a common goal will get there faster. Sometimes he is right about it — and the percentage is just good enough to warrant the long-time belief that any kind of chamber of commerce is better than none at all.

There is, of course, the querulous gent. who pays in $12 a year and then hollers his head off because United States Steel Corporation hasn't brought a smelter to town. If money were all there was to it, our pink-skinned city wouldn't have a chance anyway; so why pay attention to a heckler?

Franklin McLarty, incoming president last night asked for full support of next week's membership campaign.

How about it?

The House of Representatives yesterday passed Truman-sponsored bill to levy a 90-million-dollar income tax on the investment earnings of life insurance companies which had been untaxed in 1947, 1948 and 1949.

It may be there is some justification for this, but I want to point out that it threatens a dangerous trend regarding the savings of the American people.

As applied to stock companies operating for a profit an income tax would be justified, but the largest life insurance firms are mutuals — that is, their entire earnings come back to the policyholders as credits upon the policies.

Now every dime a policyholder puts into life insurance has already been taxed under the personal income tax laws of the land, and to tax it again, however slightly, under laws striking the mutual companies, is to discourage savings.

Or, I should say, "savings in private funds."

The government is running its own U. S. Savings Bonds system. Do I make my thought clear?

State Not to Operate River Bridge

Little Rock, Jan. 28 (AP) — Arkansas Highway Commission has decided to stop participating in operation of the old Harahan bridge across the Mississippi river at Memphis.

And the Memphis city engineer has charged that both Arkansas and Tennessee highway departments are shirking their responsibility to maintain the new bridge. The Arkansas commission, at a meeting here yesterday, decided that the purpose of the recently completed new bridge was to discontinue use of the old structure.

In Memphis later, City Engineer W. B. Fowler said an electric bill is being run up to keep the bright blue mercury vapor lights burning along the mile-long new span with nobody obligated to pay it. He said he would like to contract with the federal public roads administration, the two state highway departments were obligated to maintain the new bridge.

As far as I'm concerned," he declared, "I'm in favor of turning the job over to the routing the PRA enforce its contract."

Fowler said the city of Memphis cleaned ice off the new bridge during a recent storm, spread cinders on it and later cleaned it up. The Arkansas commission also awarded 12 road construction contracts at a total cost of about $1,377,000 at the meeting yesterday. State Highway Engineer Alf E. Johnson said the successful bidders' prices were about 19 per cent below department's estimates on cost of the work.

Power Issue
Raised at
C. C. Banquet

Question marks were placed opposite Hope's supply of electricity and water in a frank appraisal of industrial prospects for 1950 at last night's Chamber of Commerce banquet in Hotel Barlow — a meeting which was headlined with a speech by a native son, Associate Justice Ed F. McFaddin, Little Rock, Toastmaster was Myron Lyle Brown.

The issue was touched off by Vincent Foster, discussing industrial prospects for the new year, and was commented on by Justice McFaddin at the program's end.

Mr. Foster reviewed the establishing of two new factories here last year — the Hope Paddle & Oar Co., and the Standard Generator Co. of St. Louis which has bought SPG property for a plant that will be operated under another name — and said there are prospects for two others in 1950. But he said Hope's advantage in cheap gas is neutralized by expensive electric power, and by the further fact that our water supply has a heavy mineral content — objectionable to some lines of industry.

He called the meeting's attention, however, to the fact that the city government has an industrial rate study under way.

In his featured-speech remarks Justice McFaddin returned to the question, saying:

"If we (I'll always call Hope my home) don't get some cheap electricity we won't get any new industry. Somebody's going to get cheap power from that new dam at Murfreesboro. And as for the water supply, Gus Knoke, a pioneer Hope settler (whose daughter died tragically the other day) had an important idea a generation ago. It was to pump water out of Little Rock river to Saratoga, and then feed it by gravity all the way into Hope."

Chairman Brown last night paid tribute to four retiring members of the Chamber board of directors, James Pilkinton, George Robison, Aubrey Albritton and Lloyd Spencer — and called on Mr. Robison as retiring president for the 1949 summary. Mr. Robison said the founding of the Farmers' Market on U. S. 67 West was outstanding because it represented years of discussion and planning, and most active in it was the incoming Chamber president, Franklin McLarty.

Mr. McLarty was then introduced by the toastmaster. The new president asked support of membership in the financial drive beginning next week.

And he announced that Bob Shivers, formerly associated with the Arkansas Stock Show, has been named manager of the Third District Stock show here for 1950. Mr. Shivers then introduced Justice McFaddin, himself a former president of the local chamber and a long-time civic worker before his state office took him to Little Rock a few years ago.

Said Justice McFaddin: "About 1908, when Hope had a population of between 2,500 and 3,000 a man named Carl J. Baer came here and 'sold' us on what was called the 'Anderson, Indiana, Plan.' The plan was for every public-spirited citizen to give the city a 'hookup' in language (our name for a Chamber of Commerce back then) a piece of ground. The goal was 400 such lots. And then the Hope Progressive League would sell those 400 lots back to the citizenry at $200 apiece — raising $80,000 for the promotion of new industry."

"And, believe it or not, they did raise $80,000, in cash and pledges; and sent Baer up North to get some industry. Some of what he got stayed with us, but a great deal didn't. And then some of those who had pledged to pay for those lots fell down on it, the rest got mad — and that finished the Hope Progressive League."

"In 1919 we had a second round of Chamber of Commerce activity. In that year C. A. Tunnel came to town and was hired as manager, and three-year subscriptions were taken for a chamber whose annual budget was to be $15,000. Tunnel himself got $6,000 a year. It lasted through the first year — and then Mr. Tunnel left town. There had been some hesitance about the payment of pledges for the second year."

"We had a third chamber in the 1920s, which lasted until the great depression. And then we made our last attempt at the present Chamber of Commerce — and by all of the organizations that have all odds this is the oldest and best one before."

"What makes a Chamber of Commerce? Energy and faith — the energy and faith of individual men."

"I recall that in the year when I was chamber president oil was struck at Waterloo, in Nevada county, and Hope had no highway leading over to Rosston, the town nearest the field. Lawrence Benson, tunnel foreman of the Chamber's year, got out and raised $3,000 as a special fund to get a gravel road started from here to Rosston."

"And the following year, when the late L. A. Foster, Vincent's father, was president, Hope launched and eventually won the fight to make the Red river bridge at Fulton a public rather than a privately-owned toll bridge. U. A. Gentry, O. A. Graves, Miss Beryl Henry and Mr. Foster all worked on that great project — at a time when the threat of a private toll bridge might have caused the present U. S. 67 to have been re-routed around Arkansas and through Oklahoma."

In concluding, Justice McFaddin

Selection of a Queen of Hearts will climax a Valentine's Day carnival at Garland School February 14. Each class selected a boy who will automatically become King of Hearts if the girl in his class is elected.

Queen Candidates are: Dolly Ramsey, Sherrie Fielding, Sharon Foster, Brenda Hamm, Ginger Wallace, Linda Kay McDowell, Sheila Foster, Judy Franks, Billie Dawn Franks, Bobby Aaron, afternoon group (1st grade) Billy Reed Parson; 2nd, Joe Matt Herndon 3rd, Jimmy Bizzell; 3rd, David Watkins; 4th, Jimmy Jones; 4th, Bob Little; 5th, Johnny Lingo, 6th Bill Bridges.

The carnival starts at 6:30 p. m. and features concessions and games. The queen's contest will start at 8:30 p. m. and at 8:45 the little lady having the most votes will be crowned "Queen of Hearts" and the boy in her class will be "King." Following coronation services students will honor the royals and guests with folk dances.

Pact Nations
Start Getting
U. S. Arms

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP) — Small American arms shipments are being hastily assembled for delivery to Atlantic pact nations.

Officials said these initial supplies are intended as "psychological boosters" for the European countries, which have been concerned over the delay in getting the arms aid program started.

The aid project was approved by congress last October, but could not get rolling fully until yesterday, when the ambassadors of eight Western European nations agreed to terms set by this country.

At the same time, President Truman formally proclaimed his approval of the master defense plan drawn up by the 12 Atlantic pact military chiefs.

Mr. Truman hailed the joint defense outline as a "deterrent to aggression," and said its recommendations "provide further convincing evidence of the determination of these nations to resist aggression against any of them."

He noted, however, that the military aid defense plan is but a "first step" and that a strong defense demands constant review "in the light of changing circumstances."

The eight European governments signed up for their share of the U. S. arms in a 13-minute ceremony presided over by Secretary of State Acheson.

Speaking for the eight nations, Ambassador Wilhelms Munthe of Norway said the signing of the agreements proves that the Western democracies are now profiting by the lessons of history.

"We have refused to make all over again the fatal mistake of letting an aggressor pick us off one by one," he said.

And, apparently anticipating Russian denunciations, he emphasized anew the "utterly defensive character" of the North Atlantic treaty.

"Our deepest wish," he said, "is to live in peace and brotherhood with all nations in this world, but we cannot deviate from our solemn determination that it must be peace with freedom."

Acheson told the ambassadors the agreements represent a "major concrete step" in the Western plan to strengthen itself within the framework of the United Nations.

4 Injured, One Arrested in Auto Accident

Four persons were hurt, one seriously, and a Negro "hookup" driver was arrested early today following an accident on Highway 87 at the foot of the Red River bridge at Fulton.

According to investigating state officers a hookup driven by Curtis Smith, Memphis Negro, was passing an auto driven by Frank R. Glasgow, Jr., of Little Rock, on the bridge approach.

The car which Smith was pulling struck the right front of the Glasgow vehicle and all three rolled down and 30 to 40 foot embankment, uprooting a large tree at the bottom.

Glasgow's mother, Mrs. Anna Glasgow of Texarkana, sustained a severe back and hip injury. His wife, Dora, and daughter, Betty, suffered shock and lacerations. Glasgow escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Hope City police arrested Smith who had left the scene of the accident and caught a bus. All three vehicles were demolished.

Loss Boswell
Dies at Home
Near Hope

Loss Boswell, aged 67, a resident of Rocky Mound community, died early today at his home. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Florence Finch of Rocky Mound.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Union, near Budaw, by the Rev. Wesley Thompson and the Rev. D. G. Silvey.

Polio Drive

Residents of the DeAnn community last night gave wholehearted support to the Hemstead March of Dimes drive which actually is lagging far behind the goal.

A program sponsored by the community's Lilac club netted $108 to the polio campaign. This figure is exceptionally large for a community of that size and should serve to cause many "red faces" in larger communities of the county.

150 Jap Prisoners
Die in Siberia
Prison Camps

Tokyo, Jan. 28 (AP) — Repatriation authorities said today a Japanese army prisoner of war smuggled out of Siberia the names of 150 authentic and have begun notifying next of kin, who had no clue to the war prisoners' fate.

The Japanese officer is Minoru Yahata, 29, a company commander. He was held alternately at Kharaza and Tabachia camps in Siberia and at a hospital in Inan.

Yahata said he jotted down the names of his comrades as they died. He wrote on small bits of paper which he hid in the lining of his shoulder epaulettes.

When they could hold no more, he hid his additional lists in 11 metal buttons of his uniform. About 30 of the names were weathered so badly they could not be read.

Yahata told authorities most of the 150 succumbed to pneumonia and malnutrition. Some were shot, he asserted.

Praised for his ingenuity, Yahata told authorities: "I only did my duty as a company commander."

Search Starts
for Plane With 44 Aboard

Edmonton, Alta., Jan. 28 (AP) — Rescue planes of two nations focused today on the mountainous, icy, blizzard-infested Yukon territory in search of a U. S. Air Force C-54 which vanished two days ago with 44 persons aboard.

Among the 38 passengers were a mother and her child, military dependents. Others were servicemen returning to the states. Eight crew members manned the big four-engine transport on the ill-fated flight.

The plane disappeared Thursday afternoon about two hours after leaving Anchorage for Great Falls, Mont., a waypoint en route to its home base at Briggs field, El Paso, Tex.

Air rescue services of the United States and Canada joined forces and sent scores of search craft to the bleak area of craggy peaks, frozen swamps and muskies, snow and ice.

At Whitehorse, from which the hunt is being directed, bad weather forced officials to call back all planes last night after a full day in the air.

The search is a dawn to dusk proposition and the hours of daylight are few.

Names of the eight crewmen have been revealed. The others will not be released until 48 hours after next of kin have been notified.

Clues upon which to base the search are meager. The plane last reported by radio as it passed a snag on the Alaska highway aerial route. Snag is about 20 miles into the Yukon from the Alaska border and about 1,000 miles northwest of Edmonton as the crow flies.

U. S. and Canadian planes are concentrating at Whitehorse, in Yukon territory. They are directed there by wing Commander D. R. Miller, commanding officer of the R. C. A. P. station in Fort Nelson, B. C. The 10th U. S. air rescue squadron under Lt. Col Eugene O. Strauss is cooperating with the Canadians.

At Elmendorf field, Anchorage, in overall command at American operations is a famed Polar flier who has spent some anxious moments in Arctic wastes — Col. Bert Balchen. He pioneered flying in both the Arctic and Antarctic regions and was pilot at one time for Rear Adm. Richard Byrd.

Hopes Bright
for Return of Miners

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP) — The sudden revival of contract talks between John L. Lewis and soft coal operators raised tentative hopes today that some of the 88,000 miners' mine might return to work next week.

Lewis and mine owners from the North and West agreed yesterday to reopen negotiations on Wednesday. Southern operators weren't included.

There was some talk that the United Mine Workers' chief intended to issue a direct order to miners, beforehand to restore peace in the troubled areas of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

Lewis' meeting with officers of the union's district four of Uniontown, Pa., last Wednesday was taken as an indication he was cracking down on leaders of the strike in that region.

However, at least three presidents of districts at Uniontown said they expect the walkout to continue on Monday.

Although the operators at first attached a lot of strings to resuming the negotiations which they broke off during the miners' October strike, there was mention of conditions in the later telegrams which fixed the day.

The meetings apparently will begin at 2 p. m., as suggested by the mine owners. Lewis had proposed starting at 10 a. m., but said afterwards that any time the operators wanted was all right with him.

Wednesday at 10 a. m. is the time set by federal Judge Richmond B. Keach to hear a national labor union's bid for an injunction to end the Lewis three-day work week. The injunction was asked by operators from all parts of the country.

There was plenty of skepticism about how far the Wednesday talks will get. Senator R. M. La Follette remarked that "there is very great uncertainty as to when, if at all, the negotiations will result in a settlement."

Donnell and other Republicans failed yesterday in their efforts to force action on a resolution calling on President Truman to use the injunction authority of the Taft-Hartley act against Lewis.

The President told his news conference yesterday he had no comment on when a resolution calling on the mounting coal crisis.

Mr. Truman added that he has read very carefully a report by James Boyd, director of the bureau of mines. Boyd told a senate committee he had informed the President that an emergency soon will confront the nation unless full coal production is restored.

FLU SPREADS IN JAPAN

Tokyo, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Japanese welfare ministry said today there is an alarming spread of influenza in Japan. It reported there were 44,000 current cases among Japanese.

American authorities said there had been a "moderate increase" among occupation personnel, but all cases were mild and of short duration.

Pregnant Girl
Blames Pastor
for Condition

Benton Ill., Jan. 28 (AP) — A 14-year-old girl who is eight months pregnant testified she was intimate with her former pastor several times and that he told her relations were a "matter of the flesh only and do not bother the soul."

The trial of James L. Pettit, 52, former pastor of a Baptist church at nearby Thompsonville, on a charge of statutory rape, was expected to go to a Franklin county circuit court jury today. Both state and defense rested their case yesterday.

Pettit, testifying yesterday, denied the story by the girl, Pauline Fowler. The girl told a jury of 11 men and one woman she went to Pettit's home about a dozen times starting last July, when he was pastor of a church. She said Pettit's wife was each time. She said Pettit's wife was at work in a factory on the occasions when she went to his home on the pretext of doing housework.

Pettit testified his mother was present at the time the Fowler girl visited his home. Mrs. Pettit told the jury she had the "utmost faith in my husband."

Under cross-examination, Pauline denied she had relations with other men.

The charges were filed against Pettit last October after physicians found the girl pregnant. Pettit, who has been working recently as a coal mine electrician, said he resigned his pastorate because of differences with some members over church policies.

Wants Tax
Hike on Big Corporations

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP) President Truman wants to cut taxes for about one-eighth of the nation's corporations those earning between $25,000 and $119,000 a year — officials reported yesterday.

While he also plans to ask for an increase in the levies on big corporations, informants said, fewer companies would be affected by the boost, a fact which might wipe out some of the congressional opposition to the President's tax program.

About 80,000 firms fall into the $25,000-$119,000 class; about 60,000 make more than that.

Mr. Truman has asked congress to boost the overall yield of corporate income taxes by $700,000,000 to help lessen the spread between the amount of money the government takes in and the amount it pays out.

Hearings on the proposal are scheduled to begin next Thursday before the house ways and means committee.

Officials who asked not to be identified by name told a reporter that Mr. Truman's plan calls for a flat 42 per cent rate on profits above $25,000. The present rate for smaller firms would apply on any corporation's first $25,000 of profits. This averages 23 per cent.

Under present law, all corporations earning $25,000 to $50,000 pay $5,750 taxes on the first $25,000 and 53 per cent on additional profits. Corporations earning $50,000 or more now pay a flat 38 per cent.

Under the new proposal, they would pay 23 per cent on the first $25,000, 42 per cent on the balance.

This figures out at a cut in the present rate until $119,000 is reached. At that point, taxes under the new proposal would be $10 higher than at present.

The President's plan, as reported, would leave taxes of corporations with profits under $25,000 at the present rates, 21 per cent on the first $5,000, 23 per cent on the next $15,000, and 25 per cent on the next $5,000.

Thus the full burden on the extra $100,000 a year would fall on the fewest 80,000 corporations in the $119,000-and-above class.

Truman Aides
Out to Lure Back
Dixie Democrats

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 28 (AP) — Some of President Truman's spokesmen went a-wooing today in a completely undisguised attempt to recapture the affection of Southern Democrats.

In speeches before a religious conference called by Johnathan Edwards, a Baptist minister, and the south's civil rights, pointing out the "moral" of the situation.

They steered clear of the anti-lynching, poll tax, and other civil rights proposals in a meeting shunned by some of the flight southern politicians.

Daniels, who helped write one of President Truman's 1948 campaign speeches, couched his words in careful language.

"National issues," suggested discussion topics for members of the Democratic Southern Conference, will comprise the agenda for the sessions," he said.

And he went on to say: "The South is the seed ground of the Democratic party, and Southern Democrats are united in their desire to discuss the great problems of our domestic affairs which now face the nation."

Daniels continued: "Frankly, I think those who would like to see the Southern Democrats do more to regional controversy than to constructive discussion of national issues are those who are national disunity rather than in our foreign policy, who rather make short-sighted gains at a budget necessary to keep defenses strong enough to meet any aggression against us, who more interested in the special interest of Wall Street than in the interest of the people."

Everybody was waiting for a night at 9 o'clock (EST) when President Barkley to stir the thing to something approaching a voracious.

They didn't get it out of the way by Wednesday night. Webb, a North Carolina Senator, the Army General, and Carolinian, Leon Keyserling, chairman of the National economic advisory council, Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg, secretary of the committee, and others.

Webb, in carefully chosen words, talked about the necessity of "unification" of the nations, the importance of "one peace" policy, and the defense of unification of national defenses.

"Unification," he said, "is a sound plan and it is working. And Keyserling declared 'one peace' policy is the only way to bring peace to the world."

He denied that this is a question to say: "One peace" policy is the only way to bring peace to the world."

Government Has Plans for More Power in S. W.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Secret service agents, posing as traders in the bogus money market, cracked a counterfeit ring today, and seized $200,000 in phony bills. Four men were arrested last night and today after their operations were traced from Los Angeles to New York, where they allegedly planned to put the fake money in circulation.

U. S. secret service men, who had pretended to be prospective buyers of the bogus money, told outstanding three of the counterfeiters who tried to pass off $200,000 worth of counterfeit bills as $300,000 worth.

The three claimed the larger amount was in two suitcases, and sought to sell the faked $10 and $20 bills for $80,000. The agents said the purchase price for the actual amount of fake bills—at 20 cents on the dollar—would have been $40,000.

Midway in the negotiations, the secret service men and city police broke the counterfeiters' confidence. The two suitcases of counterfeit bills in a well-furnished Queens apartment.

The trap, set with the aid of city police, followed a two-day investigation in which the agents said they followed a lead to this city.

The prisoners were booked as Anthony Chitarello, 33, Manhattan hotel clerk; Vincent Palmisano, 35, Brooklyn salesman; Anthony V. Lantieri, 36, Manhattan butcher; and Joseph Nardone, 40, Manhattan taxicab driver.

The first three were charged with possessing and attempting to sell counterfeit money, and also conspiracy to possess and sell counterfeit money. The taxicab driver, who allegedly drove the other three to various places in the city, was charged with acting in concert.

U. S. Commissioner Edward W. McDonald held the first three in $100,000 bail each and the taxicab driver in $20,000 bail, all for a hearing on Feb. 3. In lieu of bail, all were taken to the federal house of detention.

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—House investigators gave up for the time being today trying to find out just who was responsible for licensing a 1,000-pound uranium shipment to Russia in 1943.

The un-American activities committee may try again late next week. It expects to bring back the then wartime head of the atom bomb project, Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves.

Camden, Jan. 27.—(AP)—In bristling language, Arkansas' democratic national committeeman said he couldn't attend the Southern Democratic conference at Raleigh, N. C. Saturday—and he didn't say he was sorry.

In a telegram to Jonathan Daniels, North Carolina's Democratic national committeeman and sponsor of the so-called harmony confab, Dr. R. B. Robins said he didn't know of any Democrats from Arkansas who would attend.

Governor McMath and his secretary, Henry Woods, expect to be on hand.

Robins made it plain he would feel uncomfortable at a harmony conference because of President Truman's "don't give a damn" reference to James F. Byrnes' gubernatorial aspirations.

"Presume this is a meeting for Democratic harmony. How can we have party harmony when we have party in the party?" Robins asked.

PRAYERS AT HOLY STAIRS—Visitors to Rome for the Holy Year kneel in prayer on the Holy Stairs, one of the city's most sacred monuments. The "Scala Santa," facing the Basilica of St. John in Lateran, is a flight of 28 marble steps from the palace of Pilate. Legend says these are the same steps up which Jesus walked to his trial. ## End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt Copyright 1950 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

The Story: Alice Pine, recently engaged as literary secretary to the popular writer, Muriel Halek, is aware of a strange tension between Muriel and her husband, Brent, an artist. Muriel accuses Brent of acting like a "spoiled baby" and she cannot understand why Brent is so perpetually discontented. But Alice is too busy to think much about it. One day Muriel gives Alice an afternoon off and Alice goes to the village of Tolliver nearby to play golf. There she meets a tall woman who suggests they play together.

Alice Pine saw the scrutiny of her new acquaintance. "I don't believe I've seen you around here before? Are you new here?" "Yes," Alice replied. She was about to explain when the tall woman extended a large hand. "I'm Molly Tremayne. And you?" Alice took the hand and gave her name.

"All right, Alice," Molly Tremayne said. "Nice to know you. Now let's get out of this filthy room."

Alice addressed her ball. Despite her difficult lie, there came a satisfying click.

"Hey!" said Molly Tremayne. "What are you, a pro?" They advanced slowly due to Molly's vigorous but uncertain efforts. Alice didn't care. She had plenty of time and the day was wonderful. The sun high and strong and a salt-laden breeze whipping off the Sound.

Officers Have a Ring Belonging to '47 Graduate

About a month ago the Police officers in searching a negro suspect found on him a Hope High School '44 girl's handring ring marked with the initials "C. J. M."

The Sheriff's office still has this ring. The Hope High school records according to Principal Forney Holt show that the only 1947 female graduate with the initials "C. J. M." was Clara J. Markin whose whereabouts are unknown to the officers. It would be appreciated if anyone knowing the whereabouts of this young lady would inform the Sheriff's office or the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

DOROTHY DIX Warning to Parents

"Miss Sally," said a woman with more curiosity than tact to an old maid, "Why did you never marry?" You are so good and cheerful and entertaining, you are so affectionate and sympathetic, you are so domestic and so fond of children that I just don't see why some man didn't grab you up and rush you to the altar."

"Oh," replied Miss Sally with a smile and sigh. "The reason I never married was because I had too much parents. My father and mother were the kind of people who are determined, no matter what others say, to protect their children, and especially their daughters, against all the dangers and temptations of life. So, to all intents and purposes, I was kept locked up during all of my youth in a jail, with two fierce guards on either side of the door, where there wasn't the slightest chance of any man ever breaking in and bearing me off to his home."

"Of course, my parents didn't intend to wish old maidenhood upon me. They wanted me to marry, but how they thought I was to do this when they never let me get acquainted with a boy, and isolated me from all the other young people, I don't know."

"Should Have Had Beaux
"I was a pretty girl, very light-hearted and fond of amusements, a good dancer, and so there was no reason why I should not have had lots of beaux and plenty of dates, but when a young man called on my father always sat within earshot reading his paper, a grim, disapproving critical figure who froze out all natural conversation between us. We hadn't the slightest intention of doing or saying anything of which the sternest moralist could have disapproved, but with a third party listening in we were so self-conscious we couldn't laugh or sing or even play tiddledewinks."

"My father did not consider it proper for a young girl to go out alone with a boy, so he insisted on escorting me when I was invited to a party, where I was naturally a plowhorse as no young man had brought me or felt responsible for me. And he always came for me promptly at 12 o'clock as he did not approve of late hours for young girls."

"I was never permitted to do the things that other girls and boys did. I couldn't go buggy riding. I couldn't go to jolly little picnics. I couldn't go off with a crowd on a hay ride, or mixed crowd, or swimming in a mixed crowd. I couldn't even have new-fashioned clothes, but had to have my dresses the length that mother used to wear when she was a girl.

"And so I became one of those pitiful young girls who took on hungrily at other girls' good times, but who never have any them; and who eventually drift into spinsterhood. And that's the reason I never married. Because my parents cut me off from all chances of marrying."

"Is Alone Now
Not a tie on earth, nor any one who belongs to me. I often think that but for my fathers and mother's mistaken idea of protecting their girls according to strict laws and circumscribed rules to make this a subject of bitter controversy in families. There are parents who are afraid to let their daughters out of their sight, and I am determined to let them out of their little even if they have to deny them all the pleasures of youth and keep them nailed to their own firesides."

"And they do not understand that a girl must live in a world as she finds it, that she must follow the customs of the day. She must do as the other girls do or else she is sunk and will have neither boy nor girl friends and her chances of marriage will be killed."

"It is parents' duty to help their daughters make good marriages. Not prevent them. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—President Truman's refusal to comment on the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss brought fresh Republican demands today for a new congressional investigation into the case.

"If Mr. Truman won't make any answers," said Rep. Velde (R-Ill.), "it's up to congress to seek some of their own."

Velde, a former FBI agent, is a member of the House un-American activities committee. It was that group's investigations into communist espionage activities that turned up the evidence which resulted in the indictment of the former state department official and his conviction last Saturday.

Velde said he will ask the committee Wednesday to demand a look at the government loyalty record on Hiss.

In the past, Mr. Truman has denied such records to congressional committees. Velde called Mr. Truman's attitude that of "a stubborn man who is still attempting to withhold information of an espionage plot in his own branch of the government from the people and the courts of the land."

At his news conference yesterday the President was asked: "Regardless of the outcome in the higher courts, will you or will you not turn back on Alger Hiss?" No comment, Mr. Truman responded.

Another reporter asked whether there was any point in asking other questions about the Hiss case. There wasn't, the President replied. He said they weren't asked with good intent and he didn't intend to answer them.

Secretary of State Acheson has said he will not turn his back on Hiss, who is his neighbor.

Hiss was convicted by a federal court jury in New York on charges of lying when he said he never slipped government papers to a prewar communist spy ring. He received a five-year prison sentence. The conviction is being appealed.

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.) ranking Republican member of the un-American activities committee, said earlier this week that information linking Hiss to a Communist spy ring was available to the President three years ago.

Peggy Kirk Only Has to Defeat Marlene Bauer

Miami, Fla., Jan. 28 —(AP)—Only veteran golfer Peggy Kirk stands between Marlene Bauer and the finals of the Helen Lee Doherty Golf tournament—an obstacle which could prove the toughest yet for the 15-year old Midland, Texas, sensation.

Marlene, making her first appearance in the 18th annual tournament for amateur women golfers, moved into the semi-finals yesterday when she eliminated Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., one up.

Miss Kirk, of Findlay, Ohio one of the country's top women golfers defeated Mrs. James D. Platt Jr., of Miami, 3 and 2.

Marlene's medalist score of 71 was one of the best in several years and through 46 holes of competition she was only two over men's par.

Edean Anderson of Helena, Montana, and Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Texas, make up the other semi-finals match.

Miss Riley earned her semi-final berth by defeating Mrs. Catherine Fox of Park of Bloomfield, N. J., 3 and 2.

Today's winners meet tomorrow in the gruelling 36-hole match play finals of the 3,647-yard Miami country club course. Women's par is 38-38-78.

Boosters to Try to Support Ouachita Athletes

Arkadelphia, Jan. 28 —(AP)—Fans have taken it upon themselves to continue subsidization of football players at Ouachita college here.

Meeting on the campus of the Baptist school yesterday, alumni and other supporters formed a statewide boosters club. They announced they would raise $15,000 a year to pay room, board and tuition of 33 griders.

Ability of some athletes to continue their schooling at Ouachita became doubtful late in 1949 when President S. W. Eubanks announced that their financial aid from the college would be cut from an estimated $600 a year to $50 a semester.

Eddie Blackmon, Dewitt rice planter, was elected president of the Boosters club.

The Hope Legionnaires swamped the Springhill Independents last night at Springhill by a score of 60 to 20, with Gilson Ross leading the assault with 21 points. The balance of the Hope scores were pretty evenly divided with all of the boys playing a bang up game.

On Monday night the Hope team will have tough sledding as they journey to Prescott Legionnaires, one of the toughest independent teams in this section.
